WEATHER IS DEFIED

And Crowds Still Attend the Methodist Revival.

NO EXCUSE FOR SIN.

Evangelist Holcomb in 2nd Week At His Best.

In spite of the cold and bad condition of the sidewalks, which are covered with packed snow, and in some places really unsafe for older persons, the Methodist church was full Tuesday night. It was not expected that the people would turn out as they did.

In his preliminary remarks Mr. Holcomb said that he had been accused of rubbing the fur the wrong way during the week. He thinks that when he is rubbing the fur the wrong way he is rubbing it the right way to do some good, and when people begin to complain he begins to feel good, for then the Christians, the backsliders and the sinners are beginning to apply the sermons to themselves. That is what he wants.

He used the 51st Psalm as a basis of his sermon and it was a most powerful one. David, as we see in this Psalm, prayed as if he wanted help—he wanted individual help. He didn't say to the Lord to help the people over which he was ruler, nor for his family. He was praying for himself, his sin was ever before him and he wanted relief from his great burden. When a person prays he must individualize as David did in his prayer. When a man is praying from his heart he is mighty apt to be praying for himself. He finds he is not as angelic as he thought he was. Every fellow needs to crave God's mercy.

One great trouble with us today is that we cover up our sins. We want to hide them from the world and we won't confess them to God. But David did not do this in his prayer. He prayed God to deliver him from his sin, which was ever before him. Even the pulpit today is covering things up. We all are at it. David confessed his sin before the Lord and threw himself on His mercy, which is broad enough to reach a man no matter how deep he may be in sin. David was thinking of the man he had killed and the woman he had wronged.

Another strong point in the sermon was people trying to put their sins off on somebody else. But sin

MAY FESTIVAL A SURE GO

The Great Innes Orchestral Band Heads List of Attractions.

CHORUS OF 1,200 VOICES.

Voices of Pembroke, Elkton, And Cadiz Will be Heard.

The spring Music Festival, which has been arranged for three days the latter part of May, will be the biggest thing ever held in this section of the country. Incidentally we might mention the fact that it is the 50th anniversary since the beginning of music festivals in the United States. Theodore Thomas was largely to the front in this country. Since his death there are four others that have taken up the work and have persistently labored, and most successfully, to keep people alive as to what is going on in the musical world by perpetuating the work begun by Thomas. These men are Innes, Dameross, Vander-Stucken and several others. Innes seems to have gotten next to the hearts of the people by reason of his breadth and the universality of his methods.

Because of this, efforts have been made to secure him and his orchestra band as the leading feature of the approaching Spring Festival, notice of which appeared in this paper last Tuesday, in which notice was given the appointment of the various committees by the Commercial Club.

In order to make the Festival a most pronounced success, quite a number of notable singers will appear supported by a school chorus of something like 1,200 voices. The chorus will be trained by a local institution of generally acknowledged ability and experience. In addition, out-of-town talent has been secured that will materially add to the strength of the programs for each day. Some of the best voices of Pembroke, Elkton, Cadiz and other neighboring towns will be heard during the great musical event.

As stated in our previous issue, the object of the promoters of the big Festival is to create a centre of attraction here as will bring visitors to the city in large numbers. All the merchants are taking an active interest in the Festival and promptly lending their aid to the preliminary arrangements, and the different committees will have their encouragement in every way.

Efforts will be made, and will be complied with, to get the railroad companies to make a one-fare rate during the Festival.

It is a matter of general interest and which will appeal especially to those who have in the past twelve years contributed at different times to discharge the debt hanging over Union Tabernacle, the building where the Festival is to be held.

About the great Innes, who stands at the head of musical aggregations in this county, more will be said hereafter.
